SECURITY ADVICE

- Employees should always be encouraged to lock their offices even if they are leaving for a short period.
- When setting up an office, always ensure that high value goods, especially portable ones are far from the windows.
- Sites with large and busy parking lots should consider employing a manned guard in the parking lots and installing cameras to monitor the lots.
- Residents should ensure that they leave their homes in the hands of trustworthy and capable guardians. Residents should also ensure caretakers have panic buttons.
- Avoid deserted streets and always ensure that you are aware of your surroundings.
- Young children should always be escorted to and from school and older children are encouraged to walk in groups.

OUTLOOK

Given the increased cost of living and other aggravating factors such as the shortage of reliable transport and reports of increased use of illicit drugs, crime is likely to increase and manifest in various forms.

Thus far, robbery, murder and assault are the most common serious crimes when analysing the incidents reported by the police.

As the nights get darker and longer, break ins are also likely to increase and criminals will take advantage of sites without functioning alarm systems.

Common robberies are likely to increase in poorly lit areas as criminals target hitchhikers and pedestrians walking alone late at night or in the early mornings.
