HIGH RISK AREAS

SECURITY ADVICE

- Do not keep money on site overnight
- Employees should be vigilant when working on site overnight and when closing shop
- Be wary of and do not ignore frequent alarm activations as criminals may be testing your reaction or the response team arrival time
- Do not exit your house to inspect suspicious noises, rather wait for a response team to do so
- Always lock your doors and arm your alarm in the early evenings
- Install alarms at warehouses especially if they contain valuables and are not regularly accessed
- Equip employees in the far flung areas with the numbers of reliable police contacts, especially if there is no reliable response service in the area

OUTLOOK

Load shedding continues to push up prices thus increasing the cost of living. Internal theft and connivance likely to increase as individuals attempt to supplement incomes. Violent property crimes likely to remain prevalent at business/industrial sites, consider adding guards on site during the holidays and on weekends. Contact your Safeguard manager for a review of security measures at receptions, cash offices and warehouses as we approach public holidays.

Thank you for using Safeguard.

Armed Robbery

29 March 2023, 0233, Industrial Site, Action Close, Willowvale: A client called the control room and reported that intruders had broken into the place. A response team was dispatched to the site. On arrival, the team met with an external guard who reported that approximately seven male intruders who were armed with a firearm attacked him and tied him with cable ties. The intruders took the guard’s panic button and left him in the guard room as they proceeded to force open the office doors with a crowbar. The intruders stole some money from the accounts office and fled the site after twenty minutes. The guard managed to free himself and he informed one of the managers who instructed him to press a second panic button. At this point, the response team was already en route to the site.

19 March 2023, 0224, Butchery, Mutare Road, Ruwa: Five intruders who were wearing blue overalls and armed with a pistol, metal bars, bolt cutter and hammers broke through the security wall and attacked a duty guard. The intruders held up the night shift employees, took their cellphones as well as the guard’s guarding equipment. The intruders damaged the main entrance which leads to the management offices and changing rooms. The offices were ransacked but the intruders did not find any cash on site, prompting them to leave the site empty handed. The guard managed to untie himself and the employees and sought help from the checker and a neighbouring site.

15 March 2023, 0158, Business Site, Sande Crescent, Graniteside: Five intruders who were armed with pistols cut the razor wire and held up a guard. The intruders assaulted and tied up the guard before breaking into the reception. The intruders had cut the screen door to the upper offices and when they heard the response team approach the site, the intruders fled the scene empty handed. The intruders left behind a bolt cutter and a six pound hammer on site. Investigations revealed that the electric fence alarm which is not connected to Safeguard, had been switched off when the incident occurred. The response team and an armed response team were dispatched after the alarm activated when the intruders broke into the reception.

Robbery

26 March 2023, Night, Residential site, Monavale: A non-client report was received of a couple that was brutally assaulted and robbed by six intruders.
